Hello Rosie,

Thank you for your recommendation of the top contractors in Arizona, specifically Integrity Air Conditioning and Heating in Phoenix. When our 15 year old system began operating erratically, we called Integrity A/C and the engineer assessed the problems. We asked for a quote on a new system. The engineer, Brad, conducted a thorough analysis of the house cooling needs and configured a new system that is light years ahead of the old system in terms of efficiency and operational costs.

When the 3 person crew, Scott, Robert and Jose, arrived early Monday morning to begin replacing the two large units in the attic, the compressors outside and reworking the ducts, they were extremely polite, efficient and professional. The team worked together as professionals to accomplish a mission; each person had their tasks and worked on them without delay. They took no work breaks on either day one or day two other than to drink a lot of water. It was incredibly hot in the attic. For two days they disassembled the old systems, lowered them through the attic access and hauled up the new components to be assembled along with new lines for gas, refrigerant, water, etc.

We just did not know that such professional service was still offered anywhere in the country. It was a very positive experience to have the needed work done by the Integrity team. For anyone wanting air conditioning work done right, we give our very highest recommendation to Integrity Air Conditioning.

Thank you for your 'Rosie's List' of top contractors.

Best regards,

Ed and Sara
